

Disposal Resources

Have an item that seems to be beyond repair? For items at the end of their useful life, we have compiled information on proper disposal here.

Electronic Waste

Electronic waste is waste that contains a circuit board, such as computers, cell phones, printers, fax machines, stereos and iPods, calculators, and microwaves.

- Marin Household Hazardous Waste Facility
 - For Marin residents except Novato residents
 - Address: 565 Jacoby Street, San Rafael
 - Hours: Tuesday - Saturday, 8am - 3:30pm
- Novato Household Hazardous Waste Facility:
 - Only for Novato residents
 - Address: 7576 Redwood Blvd, Novato
 - Hours: 1st & 3rd Sundays (8:30am - 1:30 pm) & Mondays (8:30am - 12pm)
- Return to manufacturer:
 - Especially for laptops and smartphones, many retailers will accept their own items back at the end of life and may even offer a credit.

Disposal Resources

Small Electrical Waste

Electrical waste includes small appliances such as toasters, electric kettles, blenders, and hair dryers.

- Dispose in landfill: If your item is small and less than approximately 10 pounds, you can dispose of it in landfill.
 - Note: confirm your item does not have a battery or circuit board (see electronic waste) - this can start fires in facilities and endanger the health and safety of workers.

Large Electrical Waste

Electrical waste includes household appliances such as vacuums, toasters and blenders.

- Marin Resource Recovery Center:
 - Address: 565 Jacoby Street, San Rafael
 - Hours: Mon - Sat 8am - 4pm, Sun 9am - 4pm

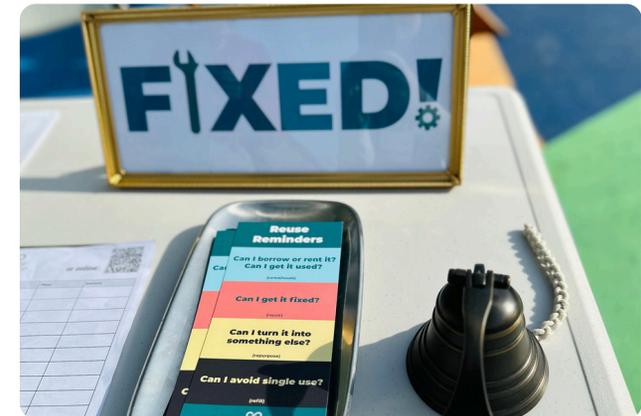

Bulky Item Pick-Up

Some waste haulers offer “bulky item pick-up” to their customers once or twice per year. Check with your waste hauler to see if this applies to you. Don’t know who your waste hauler is? Visit <https://zerowastemarin.org/who-is-my-hauler/> to find out.
